

Shipo LLC — Connectively (HARO) Source Kit + Guest-Post Backlink Plan

How this makes links: On Connectively (formerly HARO) and similar query services, journalists pick the first few credible, specific responses. Speed + a ready-to-paste kit wins. Everything below is pre-written so a live query only needs 60 seconds of tailoring before you hit send. Every response links a real, live blog post so the earned link points somewhere useful (not just the homepage).

A. Reusable Source Identity (paste into every pitch)

Name / title: Ophir Schultz, Owner & Principal, Shipo LLC Company: Shipo LLC — East Coast 3PL, FBA prep & DTC fulfillment (Wilmington, DE) Credibility line: Owner-operator of a 55,000 sq ft Delaware fulfillment center serving Shopify/DTC brands and Amazon FBA sellers; hands-on with real pick/pack, carrier, and FBA-prep economics. Contact: ophir@shipousa.com — 302-442-2343 Site: <https://shipousa.com>

Two-sentence bio (for author boxes):

Ophir Schultz is the owner of Shipo LLC, a Delaware-based 3PL running a 55,000 sq ft East Coast fulfillment center for Shopify/DTC brands and Amazon FBA sellers. He writes about fulfillment economics, FBA prep, and shipping-cost strategy at shipousa.com.

Ground rules baked into every template (standing guardrails):

- Delaware "0% sales tax" = a location fact about our warehouse only. Never phrased as lowering a seller's own sales-tax obligation, and never tax advice.
 - No fabricated numbers. The cost/margin figures below are our real published ranges — keep them as ranges, don't invent client-specific stats.
 - No guarantees of savings/results.

B. Query-Type → Pitch Templates (each links one real post)

Each template: (1) trigger = the kind of query it answers; (2) response = paste & lightly tailor; (3) link = the exact blog URL to include.

1. General 3PL / fulfillment / "how to choose a 3PL"

Trigger keywords: 3PL, third-party logistics, outsource fulfillment, switching warehouses, fulfillment provider. Response:

The most overlooked factor when choosing a 3PL is switching cost and downtime, not the per-order rate. Brands lose money in the transition — inventory in limbo, SLA gaps, double-billing across two warehouses — far more than they save on a slightly cheaper pick fee. Before signing, ask for the cutover plan in writing: who receives inventory on which date, how open orders are handled, and what the rollback is if the new WMS mis-maps SKUs. I wrote a downtime-free switching playbook here: [How to Switch Your 3PL Without Downtime]. — Ophir Schultz, Owner, Shipo LLC

Link: <https://shipousa.com/how-to-switch-3pl/> Alt link (choosing/east-coast angle): <https://shipousa.com/east-coast-fulfillment/>

2. FBA prep / Amazon seller logistics

Trigger keywords: Amazon FBA, FBA prep, prep center, FNSKU labeling, poly bag, seller fulfillment, inbound to Amazon. Response:

When sellers pick an FBA prep partner they fixate on the per-unit prep fee and miss the two things that actually cause chargebacks: label accuracy and inbound compliance. A mislabeled FNSKU or a non-compliant poly bag can trigger Amazon prep-service fees or a receiving hold that dwarfs the few cents you saved. Ask any prep center for their error rate, how they handle expiration/lot tracking, and whether they can turn receiving around inside 24–48 hours during Q4. Full checklist here: [Best 3PL for Amazon FBA Prep in 2026 — What to Look For]. — Ophir Schultz, Shipo LLC

Link: <https://shipousa.com/best-3pl-amazon-fba-prep/>

3. Shipping cost / dimensional weight / carrier rates

Trigger keywords: shipping costs, dimensional weight, DIM, carrier rates, reduce shipping spend, packaging. Response:

The fastest shipping-cost win for most DTC brands isn't a carrier discount — it's fixing dimensional weight. Carriers bill on the greater of actual vs. dimensional weight, so an oversized box on a light product means you're paying to ship air. Right- sizing cartons and mailers routinely cuts parcel spend 10–20% with zero carrier renegotiation. I built a free DIM calculator so brands can see their own numbers: [Dimensional Weight Calculator]. — Ophir Schultz, Owner, Shipo LLC

Link: <https://shipousa.com/dimensional-weight-calculator/> Alt link (total cost angle): <https://shipousa.com/3pl-fulfillment-cost/>

4. What does fulfillment/3PL actually cost? (pricing transparency)

Trigger keywords: how much does fulfillment cost, 3PL pricing, hidden fees, pick and pack cost, storage fees. Response:

3PL pricing is confusing on purpose at a lot of providers — the headline pick fee is low and the margin hides in receiving, storage, surcharges, and "account management" line items. Ask for an all-in monthly estimate on YOUR real order profile, and watch for peak-season surcharges and long-term storage fees. As a rough frame: expect a monthly minimum, per-order pick/pack, and storage priced by the cubic foot or bin — anything that won't quote transparently is a red flag. I published a transparent cost breakdown here: [How Much Does 3PL Fulfillment Cost?]. — Ophir Schultz, Shipo LLC

Link: <https://shipousa.com/3pl-fulfillment-cost/>

5. Category-specific DTC fulfillment (subscription / beauty / supplements / pet)

Trigger keywords: subscription box, beauty/cosmetics, supplements, pet products, kitting, DTC brand ops for a specific vertical. Response (swap the bracketed vertical + link to match the query):

[Subscription / beauty / supplement / pet] brands have fulfillment needs a generalist 3PL botches: [kitting and recurring-box assembly / fragile & leak-prone SKUs and shade variants / lot & expiration tracking and FDA-adjacent labeling / heavy, oversized SKUs and dim-weight]. The right questions are about whether the 3PL handles your specific workflow natively, not just "do you ship boxes." I wrote a vertical-specific guide here: [title]. — Ophir Schultz, Owner, Shipo LLC

- Supplements: <https://shipousa.com/supplement-fulfillment/>
- Pet products: <https://shipousa.com/pet-product-fulfillment/>

6. Small business / Delaware / startup operations

Trigger keywords: Delaware small business, startup logistics, bootstrapped ecommerce ops, East Coast shipping, 2-day delivery. Response:

If your customers are on the East Coast, warehouse location is the cheapest speed upgrade you can buy — shipping from the Mid-Atlantic can put a large share of the US population in 1–2 day ground zones without paying for air. (Our Delaware facility also sits in a 0% sales-tax state, which is a fact about the warehouse location — not a claim about your own sales-tax obligations, which depend on your nexus.) 7. Broad "expert FAQ / explain a logistics term" queries

Trigger keywords: explain 3PL, fulfillment FAQ, logistics glossary, beginner ecommerce shipping questions. Response:

Happy to be a source on fulfillment basics — I keep a plain-English 3PL & fulfillment FAQ covering the terms sellers trip on (pick/pack, kitting, DIM weight, receiving, FBA prep vs. DTC). Glad to answer specific reader questions directly. Reference: [3PL & Fulfillment FAQ]. — Ophir Schultz, Owner, Shipo LLC

C. Fast-Response Workflow (the part that actually earns the link)

1. Monitor daily. Connectively query alerts land by email; scan for the trigger keywords in Section B. Aim to respond within 1–2 hours of a query going live.

1. Match the template, paste, and tailor the first sentence to the journalist's exact angle (mention their outlet/topic once — signals you read it).

1. Keep it tight: 60–120 words, lead with the insight, one link, signed bio. Journalists cut anything longer.

1. One link only per response, pointing at the most relevant post (not the homepage).

2. Log every pitch (date / outlet / query / post linked / outcome) so we can measure which posts earn links and double down.

1. No fabricated stats, no savings guarantees, DE tax = location fact only — every time.

Login note: Submitting live responses requires you to be signed into your own Connectively account. I can't authenticate for you — you paste & send; I prep the copy.

D. Guest-Post Backlink Plan (continues the Fulfillment IQ / Metrobi / ShipEak pipeline)

Goal: contributed articles on logistics/ecommerce blogs where the author bio and 1–2 in-body links point to a specific Shipo post — earning contextual editorial backlinks.

Target outlets (already in pipeline + expansions):

- Fulfillment IQ, Metrobi, ShipEak (pitched) — follow up.

- Expansion targets: ecommerce ops blogs, Shopify-adjacent publications, Amazon-seller newsletters/blogs, DE/regional small-business outlets.

3 ready-to-pitch guest-post angles (each anchors a real post):

| # | Working title | In-body link target | Bio link target | |---|-----|-----|-----|
 -----| | 1 | "The Hidden Cost of Switching 3PLs — and How to Avoid Downtime" |
<https://shipousa.com/how-to-switch-3pl/> | <https://shipousa.com/east-coast-fulfillment/> | | 2 | "FBA Prep Mistakes That Trigger Amazon Chargebacks" | <https://shipousa.com/best-3pl-amazon-fba-prep/> | <https://shipousa.com/3pl-fulfillment-cost/> | | 3 | "Why Your Shipping Bill Is 20% Too High (Dimensional Weight, Explained)" | <https://shipousa.com/dimensional-weight-calculator/> |
<https://shipousa.com/3pl-fulfillment-cost/> |

Pitch email skeleton (no brackets left to fill except outlet/editor):

Subject: Guest post idea — [angle title]

Hi [editor first name], I'm Ophir Schultz, owner of Shipo LLC, a Delaware 3PL running a 55,000 sq ft East Coast fulfillment center. I'd like to contribute an original, non-promotional piece for your readers: "[angle title]." It's practical and specific — real fulfillment economics, not a sales pitch — with one link to a relevant resource and a short author bio. I can deliver 900–1,200 words on your timeline, exclusive to you. Recent writing sample: [one blog URL]. Would this fit your calendar?

Thanks, Ophir Schultz — Shipo LLC — ophir@shipousa.com

Guardrails for guest posts:

- Original, non-promotional body — earns the placement, keeps the link editorial.
- Max 1–2 contextual links; the rest of the value is in the writing.
- Never post duplicate content across outlets (hurts SEO); each piece unique.
- Disclose the author relationship honestly (owner of Shipo).

E. Suggested Cadence

- Daily: scan Connectively queries; respond to any matches within 1–2 hours.
- Weekly: send/follow up 3–5 guest-post pitches; log all outbound.
- Monthly: review the link log — which posts earned links, which templates worked — and reallocate effort to the winners.

Prepared for Ophir Schultz / Shipo LLC. Every earned link points to a real, live blog post. No fabricated data; DE 0% sales tax framed as a location fact only.
